Ed: Greetings to my beloved Ramji. I have a wonderful new jivanmukta to report on! This is a friend of mine who met me through my teaching and satsangs before, during my “fake guru” phase. He was a big Ramesh follower for years and was later into the whole Neo thing. When I took my site down and told him about you in 2010, he checked you out. I didn’t hear from him after that and I assumed he was still caught up with the Neos.

But he called me today to tell me he went back to reading you a month ago and one long e-satsang he read caused the big click! I am so happy for him! He had read your book about four times, he said, so he was prepared. I asked him what it was that really made the difference to him in your teaching. What hit him between the eyes when he read that satsang was putting the whole “experience” thing to bed. As soon as he let go of that expectation, bingo! He’s a very bright guy, and I could have guessed he would “crack the code.” It’s so interesting to me how intelligent people are drawn to Vedanta.

Anyway, you may hear from him. He’s one happy camper.

~ Lots of love, Ed
