Dave: Dear Ram, when you came to Cape Town I spoke to you about kundalini and a few other things. After that day you introduced the Vedanta methodology my mind has been on consistent search to obtain as much knowledge/qualifications as I can in order to realise the simply-complex fact that I am free consciousness living in a non-dual reality. From my rather intensive inquiry, research and applying the knowledge I have been having/have epiphanies... which is great but which is also frustrating. I am not writing to you with any questions, because I don't have questions anymore.

It was in the early hours of this morning when all those little questions - living in that one simple question (who am I?/what am I?) was answered, or perhaps I should say realised. The mind was terrified at first; however, it surrendered with a permanent realisation (which I don't have to explain to you). The mind is not what is permanent... I cannot express it in any other way.

I am sure that you receive ridiculous amounts of these emails; however, I cannot not express the bliss, contentment and love that the Vedanta methodology has shown me.

~ Thank you and blessings, Dave
